TELLICO VILLAGE POA

OBJECTIVE OBSERVER REPORT

Town Hall (June 15, 2026) & Board Meeting (June 17, 2026)

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The June 2026 meetings were the most consequential — and most governance-testing — of the new board's tenure. Three major financial motions passed on 4-2 votes over the objections of both minority board members and the FAC chair, who resigned immediately afterward. The board transferred approximately $5.6 million in historically recorded UTI surpluses from general reserves into the water/sewer reserve, voted to refund all WSIAF payments to lot owners who request them, and directed Claude Thorn to develop a refund process by June 30. All three motions bypassed both the Finance Advisory Committee and the Audit Committee — a procedural choice that FAC Chair Doug Sloan called out explicitly before announcing his resignation effective immediately. FAC member Cherie Oswald publicly stated she is also considering resignation. The Troon contract cost was disclosed for the first time: Lackey stated it will be "between four and $600,000 for the year," including Claude Thorn's salary and all consultant costs, though he characterized it as an à la carte arrangement whose final total remains undetermined. Christine Martinez delivered a detailed and impressive 60-day food and beverage overview. The golf cart lease was approved unanimously with exemplary advisory committee process — GAC recommended the vendor, FAC evaluated lease vs. purchase — standing in sharp contrast to the financial motions that bypassed those same committees. CFO Bedford confirmed she has now submitted close to $3 million in grant invoices, substantially closing the federal grant gap. A new controversy emerged: the board (or IEL) cancelled a scheduled TVRA-sponsored TVN broadcast of a county officials' event without a written policy in place, generating significant community pushback. Board member Larry Godwin's pre-meeting invocation practice drew a pointed and substantive challenge from a resident, producing a heated exchange that board member Taylor ultimately cut short by invoking time limits.

GENUINE POSITIVES

- Christine Martinez's 60-day food and beverage update was the most operationally substantive departmental presentation in this series. Her work — standardized recipes, certified trainer program, leadership development launching June 24, Toast platform optimization, catering division buildout, mobile bar at Kahite, beverage cart program at Toqua, and Tanasi restaurant on schedule for August 27 opening — demonstrates real institutional capacity building. The Little Italy breakfast staff integration

(6-7 employees retained) was handled with sensitivity and community awareness. [Town Hall ~11:02–19:13]

- The federal grant drawdown is now substantially complete. CFO Bedford confirmed submission of "another $750,000 or so" in invoices, bringing total claims to "close to $3 million." This effectively resolves the concern flagged since April 2026 that no invoices had been submitted in over a year. [Board Meeting ~14:50–15:07]
- The golf cart lease procurement followed exemplary advisory committee process. Casey Flenniken obtained bids from three vendors (Yamaha, EZ-GO, Club Car). GAC evaluated the carts and recommended EZ-GO. FAC separately evaluated lease vs. purchase and recommended leasing. Claude Thorn contributed a 5% Troon-negotiated discount on EZ-GO pricing. Jim Hinkley and Casey identified a Club Car contractual error that saved the POA approximately $360,000 in return costs. The EZ-GO bid includes four free work vehicles, pace-of-play GPS technology (Golf Logix), and lithium-powered maintenance vehicles — all at $1.35/cart/month less than Club Car. This is the standard the board should hold itself to on all procurement. [Board Meeting ~1:45:24–1:58:04]
- Matt Benoit's infrastructure presentations were technically rigorous and transparent. Both the Tanasi Cove VFD replacement ($37,671, three bids, clear explanation of why all components needed replacement simultaneously) and the vacuum excavator replacement ($80,229, with operational justification for larger capacity) were supported by competitive bidding and detailed rationale. His description of the Kahite waterline emergency — 8-inch break discovered at 12:30, repaired and flushed by 2:30 — exemplifies the operational competence the community should recognize. [Board Meeting ~2:08:31–2:23:19]
- The Troon contract cost was finally disclosed. After five months of tracking, Lackey provided a range: "between four and $600,000 for the year," inclusive of Thorn's salary, all consultant salaries, and travel. While the range is wide and the à la carte structure means the final number remains unknown, this is meaningful progress from the refusal to disclose any figure. [Board Meeting ~15:19–16:37]
- Employee satisfaction survey out-briefing to employees is nearly complete. Rick Creange reported that three of four in-person employee feedback sessions have been conducted, with approximately half of survey participants having attended debriefs. The team resolved several operational issues (geofencing clock-in, tip-out automation) on the spot during survey sessions, demonstrating responsiveness. The baseline of 73-75% overall satisfaction establishes a measurable target for improvement. [Board Meeting ~2:50:15–3:03:32]
- Process efficiency work is producing quantifiable results. John Villa's team has implemented credit card processing rate reductions, telephone/internet service elimination ($16K annual savings), and health insurance consolidation. Food service turnover dropped from nearly 100% to approximately 12%. Claude Thorn's initiative to align training with pay scales represents sound management practice. [Board Meeting ~2:39:33–2:46:13]

- The non-smoking policy adoption was clean governance. David Taylor presented the policy with clear legal citations (TCA 39-17-1802 through 1804), Kevin Stevens reviewed compliance, and the vote was unanimous. The policy brings the POA into compliance with state and federal law. [Board Meeting ~36:02–40:18]
- Teresa Reed's public apology was a model of accountability. Her return to the microphone to acknowledge that her town hall remarks about TVRA were "factual to my experience" but not intended as accusations, and her explicit apology for "causing any consternation," demonstrated the kind of self-correction that builds community trust. [Board Meeting ~23:06–26:48]

CONCERN 1: $5.6 MILLION RESERVE TRANSFER — BYPASSED FAC AND AUDIT COMMITTEE ON THE BOARD'S MOST CONSEQUENTIAL FINANCIAL DECISION

1a. The Motion and Its Rationale

Board member Joel Reed moved to transfer approximately $5.6 million — consisting of $192,793 in water/sewer surpluses and $5,425,542 in UTI surpluses from 2021-2025 — from general reserves into the water/sewer reserve account. David Taylor provided the primary rationale:

> "We are trying to get ready to be regulated by TBOUR and we want to appear as clean and conservative and correct in the way we have handled all water sewer funds... You want to look boringly correct the first time the regulator looks at you." [Board Meeting ~42:27–46:22]"

Taylor further argued: "Once we come under regulation, you cannot move anything into the water sewer reserve account that isn't already there." [Board Meeting ~46:31–46:39]

1b. Ed Grollemond's Objections Were Substantive and Procedurally Sound

Grollemond raised four specific concerns, none of which were satisfactorily answered before the vote:

1. No dollar amount in the motion: "There's no amount specified in this motion. I'm not going to approve something that I don't know how much I'm moving over." [Board Meeting ~41:29–41:37]

2. No FAC review: "I have never seen a multi-million dollar thing in this village where the finance committee has not been involved and made a recommendation." [Board Meeting ~50:25–50:34]

3. Impact on general reserves unknown: "What projects are going to be delayed? What pump stations are going to be pushed back a year or two?" [Board Meeting ~1:11:56–1:12:02]

4. No five-year cash flow impact analysis: "Cash flows we have the cash flow effect for the next five years. They've been involved in that." [Board Meeting ~51:13–51:21]

When Grollemond moved to table the motion pending FAC review, his motion failed for lack of a second. The substantive motion then passed 4-2.

1c. The Board President Read Committee Charter Limitations to Justify Bypassing Committees

In a revealing exchange, Lackey read from the FAC charter to argue that the committee had no role in this decision:

> "The committee shall not serve as a check on, evaluator or perform oversight of managerial authority or performance. The committee is not a governing body. As such, it shall not independently formulate, implement policy, issue directives, exercise approval authority, or assume a superior position to the finance director." [Board Meeting ~53:59–54:34]"

This reading is technically accurate but misapplied. Grollemond was not asking the FAC to exercise "approval authority" or "assume a superior position." He was asking for what the charter explicitly authorizes: review, analysis, and recommendation. Per the FAC Charter (Section IV.C), the committee's duties include: "Review and make recommendations regarding proposed capital expenditures" and "Analyze current and projected revenues, expenses and capital requirements and provide advice to maintain a sound financial position." A $5.6 million reserve reallocation falls squarely within that mandate.

When Carla Johnson pointed this out — "We're not asking them to make the decision. We're just asking them to have the opportunity to review it" — Lackey responded: "That's what I thought we hired Troon for." Johnson's reply was sharp: "So you hired Troon to do away with all of our advisory committees?" [Board Meeting ~54:55–55:20]

1d. Scott Brown's Audit Report Directly Contradicts the Motion's Premise

The board's rationale for the UTI transfer rests on the policy judgment that UTI surpluses "belong as part of our water sewer system" (Taylor, [Board Meeting ~43:30]). However, FAC member Scott Brown's comprehensive audit report — published June 10, 2026 — reached the opposite conclusion after extensive review of governing documents, the sewer permit, GAAP, and Tennessee nonprofit law:

> "There is no requirement under current GAAP or applicable regulatory frameworks to report UTI activities within the Water & Sewer department, nor to allocate UTI-related financial results to Water & Sewer reserves. These conclusions are independent of whether the Association utilizes an enterprise accounting model for Water & Sewer operations." [Scott Brown Audit Report, Exhibit E]"

Brown further concluded: "UTI activities are appropriately accounted for as service revenue under ASC 606. Under the Association's consolidated reporting model, the current treatment of UTI activities — including recognition of related revenues and expenses within general operating results — is appropriate and consistent with GAAP."

Doug Sloan reinforced this point at the board meeting: "For decades UTI has been treated as a public works activity rather than a water sewer utility activity because the tanks being installed are not owned by the POA. They're owned by us as the residents." [Board Meeting ~1:06:38–1:06:54]

The board majority is entitled to make a policy decision to reclassify UTI going forward. But Taylor's framing — that this transfer is necessary to "look entirely correct" — implies the prior treatment was incorrect. Brown's analysis, which the board received but never formally responded to, found no basis for that implication.

1e. Carla Johnson Identified the Circular Logic

Johnson articulated the most incisive critique of the combined motions:

> "We're talking about moving money from the general reserve into the water and sewer reserve, which in my mind is questionable whether that's actually where it belongs, especially the UTI money... and then taking it right back out and returning it to the residents. And now we don't have the funding for our water and sewer projects." [Board Meeting ~1:19:45–1:20:06]"

She also noted the timing concern: "We were told today that we need to do it now because once we're regulated by TBOUR, they wouldn't allow it. They wouldn't let us do that. So that's to me that just seems like trying to get in under the wire to do something that wouldn't be allowed under regulation." [Board Meeting ~1:17:25–1:17:47]

1f. FAC Chair Doug Sloan Resigned — The Second FAC Chair Lost in Six Months

Sloan's resignation statement was precise and measured:

> "I really appreciate the effort you guys make... even if I don't always agree with your financial decisions. But I do find myself in a position where I can no longer in good conscience continue to serve on any board committees. So, with sincere apologies to my fellow committee members and to Judy, I'm resigning from the finance advisory committee and the audit committee effective immediately." [Board Meeting ~3:19:04–3:19:30]"

This is the second FAC chair to resign in protest since the new board took office. Mike Herrington resigned in January 2026 citing "tone at the top" concerns after the December 2025 meeting. Sloan's resignation is different in character — it is about the substantive marginalization of the committee's role — but the pattern is unmistakable: the board's two most senior financial volunteers have both concluded they cannot serve effectively under this board.

FAC member Cherie Oswald added: "I can't tell you that resignation isn't on my mind as well. I do feel overlooked and disrespected at this point in time as a member of the FAC and I'm not sure that that's not something I could say perhaps some of my other colleagues feel the same way." [Board Meeting ~3:23:43–3:24:01]

1g. Claude Thorn Clarified Troon's Role — It Did Not Recommend These Transfers

Thorn stated explicitly: "We have not made a recommendation on whether you move money. I have my own opinions, but that's my opinion... We were asked to go, can you come up with a number that everybody in this conversation can agree on. Feel like we did that. Now what we do with the money, we've made no recommendation and that's up to the board." [Board Meeting ~1:21:27–1:21:51]

FAC member Scott Brown further noted: "No offense, Claude, to you and Troon, but when they stood in this room they acknowledged water and sewer is their weak link. So that means it was done by Judy, Claude, Joel, and I think since the finance committee and the audit committee were not involved... the property owners have a right to know who helped put this analysis together." [Board Meeting ~1:23:21–1:24:02]

CONCERN 2: WSIAF REFUND — VOTE TO REFUND WITH NO FUNDING SOURCE IDENTIFIED

2a. The Motion

Taylor moved to refund all WSIAF payments to current or former lot owners who request them, to be paid from "the TVPOA utility district segregated account." The motion passed 4-2. [Board Meeting ~1:09:08–1:27:44]

2b. The Money Has Already Been Spent

CFO Bedford confirmed: "We just closed it yesterday." The WSIAF account balance is zero. All collected WSIAF funds were spent on water/sewer infrastructure projects — primarily the main pump station. [Board Meeting ~1:11:39–1:11:47]

The refund must therefore come from other sources. Taylor stated it would come from the utility district segregated account — which does not yet exist. When Bedford expressed confusion about the account structure, Claude Thorn identified the practical problem: if refunds are still being processed after TBOUR regulation begins (targeted August 3), "it will be getting paid back out of regulated funds and then would come under TBOUR." [Board Meeting ~1:41:08–1:41:35]

2c. Godwin's Moral Framing vs. Johnson's Practical Concerns

Godwin framed the refund as a moral imperative: "This assessment was a burden on every resident without their knowledge or their desire and taken from them unjustly." [Board Meeting ~1:13:24–1:14:19]

Johnson and Grollemond raised practical concerns that were not resolved before the vote: Where does the refund money come from? What is the impact on funded water/sewer projects? Will the community face a future assessment to replace the refunded dollars? FAC Chair Sloan stated: "Is it really prudent to refund prior to knowing what the cost of our infrastructure repairs will be? By the board's own admission, we don't know what that cost is going to be." [Board Meeting ~1:22:37–1:23:05]

2d. Resident Observations Were More Practical Than the Board's Discussion

Pat White made two practical points the board should incorporate: (1) the refund process motion should include advisory committee involvement, and (2) the refund should have a termination date. Taylor acknowledged the termination date point as "a wise point" but declined to add FAC involvement, calling the refund process "a ministerial mechanical task." [Board Meeting ~1:30:19–1:43:14]

Gary Bush raised the unclaimed funds question and the possibility that some residents would prefer the money remain in reserves rather than face future assessments. [Board Meeting ~1:43:26–1:44:47]

CONCERN 3: ADVISORY COMMITTEE MARGINALIZATION — NOW A SEVEN-MONTH PATTERN WITH INSTITUTIONAL CONSEQUENCES

The June meeting represents the most severe instance yet of the board majority bypassing its own advisory committee structure. The pattern across seven months:

- December 2025: FSAC unanimous recommendations overridden wholesale.
- January 2026: Committee chair nominated by board liaison without open process.
- February 2026: Ad hoc committees populated without public disclosure.
- March 2026: FSAC sub-committee chair selected by board liaison.
- April 2026: PAC's 5-2 CTI recommendation rejected; no alternative approved.
- May 2026: Board issued C2RL task order without PAC or FAC review.
- June 2026: $5.6M reserve transfer and WSIAF refund passed without FAC or Audit Committee review; Lackey read committee charter limitations to justify exclusion; FAC chair resigned; second FAC member stated resignation is "on my mind."

The institutional cost is now concrete: the POA has lost its two most recent FAC chairs (Herrington in January, Sloan in June) and faces potential additional departures. Recruiting qualified financial volunteers to advisory committees that the board publicly dismisses as unnecessary will become increasingly difficult.

CONCERN 4: TVN BROADCAST CANCELLATION — NO WRITTEN POLICY, INCONSISTENT RATIONALE

4a. The Incident

Resident Stacy Kaplan McMillan reported that TVN coverage of a TVRA-sponsored county officials' event was cancelled at the last minute. Lackey stated the decision was based on fairness: "How do I tell the conservative club no? How do I tell Living Blue no when I'm granting access to other clubs?" [Town Hall ~27:58–28:10]

4b. The Board's Own Members Disagreed

Ed Grollemond: "I was not part of that decision. I don't know how that decision was made either." Carla Johnson: "I don't think it was a board decision because there was no vote taken." [Town Hall ~29:17–31:43]

Thorn confirmed the cancellation was communicated "earlyish in an afternoon... two days before, not day before." [Town Hall ~37:54–38:02]

4c. Assessment

The cancellation of a previously advertised community information event — featuring elected county officials, not partisan candidates — without a board vote, without a written policy, and without adequate notice raises governance concerns regardless of the underlying merits of the fairness question. Beth Kuberka confirmed that TVN has its own policies and procedures for reviewing requests, that the POA had asked TVRA to host these events when the Government Affairs Committee was dissolved, and that no written agreement existed. [Town Hall ~34:53–36:04]

Lackey's commitment to develop a written TVN access policy is appropriate. However, cancelling coverage while no policy exists — rather than maintaining the status quo until a policy is adopted — is the more concerning procedural choice. Board member Larry Godwin stated the practical resolution clearly: "If it's information coming out to the residents from our county, I don't think anyone on board really wants to restrict that." [Town Hall ~1:22:11–1:22:28]

CONCERN 5: PRE-MEETING INVOCATION — SUBSTANTIVE GOVERNANCE QUESTION HANDLED POORLY

5a. The Resident's Argument

Jan Doherty raised four specific questions about Larry Godwin's practice of conducting an invocation before board meetings that is excluded from the official recording. Her concerns were: (1) why it is excluded from the record, (2) why it was implemented without community discussion, (3) whether the board intends to continue it, and (4) how it aligns with "governance in the sunshine." [Town Hall ~45:48–55:57]

5b. The Exchange Deteriorated

Godwin's initial response was reasonable — explaining the practice is common in Tennessee government and that participation is voluntary. However, the exchange devolved into a personal debate. Godwin asked Doherty: "Did you discuss with every member of this community that you're an atheist and you do not want it?" [Town Hall ~52:30–52:38]. Taylor cut the exchange short by invoking the time limit, though Doherty had remaining questions. [Town Hall ~51:30]

5c. Assessment

The Supreme Court precedent Taylor cited (Town of Greece v. Galloway, 2014) is legally accurate — legislative prayer is constitutionally permissible. The substance of the practice is not the concern. The governance concerns are: (1) it was implemented unilaterally by one board member without board discussion or vote, as Carla Johnson confirmed: "This was not a board decision" [Town Hall ~56:04]; (2) it is excluded from the official recording, creating an off-the-record portion of a public meeting; and (3) the exchange with a resident became personally confrontational in a way that the board's own open forum guidelines prohibit. Godwin's willingness to consider Taylor's suggestion of moving it after the gavel [Town Hall ~55:47–55:57] is a constructive path forward.

CONCERN 6: WATER/SEWER RATE STUDY — VOLUNTARILY ENTERING REGULATION WITHOUT ONE

Scott Brown asked a precise and consequential question at the town hall: "Prior to voluntarily electing TBOUR regulation, did you guys obtain a water and sewer rate study to help inform your decision?" Lackey's answer: "No, we have not." [Town Hall ~1:31:04–1:31:27]

Lackey disclosed that the board had a three-hour Zoom call with ratestudies.com the previous day and will likely engage them under contract. This is forward progress, but the sequence is notable: the board pursued and secured TBOUR legislation, voted to transfer $5.6M into water/sewer reserves, voted to refund the WSIAF, and is now preparing county mayor petitions for utility district designation — all before obtaining a rate study that would inform whether current rates cover prudently incurred costs including depreciation, which TBOUR will require.

Henry Walker told the community at the May 18 town hall that TBOUR requires rates to cover "prudently incurred cost including depreciation." Whether current rates meet that standard is unknown. The rate study should have preceded — not followed — the regulatory commitment.

CROSS-REFERENCE: STATUS OF OPEN ITEMS FROM PRIOR REPORTS

- Troon/IEL contract cost: PARTIALLY RESOLVED. Lackey disclosed a range of "$400,000 to $600,000 for the year" including all salaries, consultants, and travel. He characterized it as à la carte with final cost undetermined. The "30% savings" claim from May 7 can now be roughly evaluated: eliminated positions totaled approximately $550K-$650K in compensation; a $400-600K Troon cost represents 0-30% savings depending on the actual figure. [Board Meeting ~15:19–16:37]
- Kahite lift station engineering: NO UPDATE at these meetings. Board issued $16,000 task order to C2RL in May; Jacobs contract status unknown; consent decree active. No mention in June proceedings.
- $2M federal grant: SUBSTANTIALLY RESOLVED. Bedford confirmed close to $3 million in total claims submitted. [Board Meeting ~14:50–15:07]
- Water/sewer overcharge audit and remediation: OVERTAKEN BY EVENTS. Rather than conducting the "complete deep dive accounting" directed in May, the board proceeded directly to transferring $5.6M and voting to refund the WSIAF. Scott Brown's comprehensive June 10 audit report — which found no evidence of wrongdoing and concluded the overcharge claims were unsupported — received no formal board response.
- Standard process for committee appointments: NO UPDATE.
- Parks & Rec unauthorized use: NO UPDATE. Simon Bradbury has resigned. No cost recovery plan presented.
- Reserve study errors: NO UPDATE. No formal community communication.
- RFI/selection criteria disclosure: NO UPDATE. David Taylor's March commitment to share selection rationale remains unmet.
- Communications Advisory Committee elimination: NO UPDATE. Eliminated in December with no explanation or follow-up.
- Key position vacancy — Director of Parks and Recreation: STILL OPEN. Simon Bradbury resigned in late May. No replacement announced. Larry Godwin's motions regarding Chota pool hours and wellness center hours suggest operational gaps in the absence of a department director.

NEWLY IDENTIFIED ITEMS

- FAC Chair Doug Sloan resigned effective immediately. Second FAC chair lost in six months. FAC member Cherie Oswald stated resignation is "on my mind." The POA's primary financial advisory body faces a leadership and morale crisis. [Board Meeting ~3:19:04–3:24:01]

- TVN access policy does not exist. The board (or IEL) cancelled a community information broadcast without a written policy, without a board vote, and without adequate notice. A policy development process was promised but no timeline was set. [Town Hall ~26:31–37:15]
- No water/sewer rate study has been conducted despite the board voluntarily entering TBOUR regulation, transferring $5.6M into water/sewer reserves, and voting to refund the WSIAF. Rate studies.com engagement is anticipated but not yet contracted. [Town Hall ~1:31:04–1:31:54]
- WSIAF refund process lacks a termination date, an identified funding source, and advisory committee involvement. Claude Thorn is directed to propose a process by June 30. [Board Meeting ~1:28:03–1:43:14]
- Pre-meeting invocation practice is conducted by one board member unilaterally, excluded from the recording, and not the result of a board vote. Carla Johnson confirmed: "This was not a board decision." [Town Hall ~56:04]
- Carey Brown's tabled motion (unspecified topic) was deferred to the next meeting due to his absence. [Board Meeting ~1:58:36–1:58:44]

CONCLUSION

June 2026 will be remembered as the month the board majority's reform agenda collided with its transparency promises. The substance of the financial motions — consolidating water/sewer funds before TBOUR regulation, refunding the WSIAF — can be defended on policy grounds. The Tellico Smart platform explicitly promised to "permanently eliminate the $80 water/sewer fee" and to maintain "segregated reserve accounts." These votes arguably deliver on those commitments.

But the process was indefensible by the board's own standards. A $5.6 million reserve reallocation and a multi-million-dollar refund commitment were approved without FAC or Audit Committee review, without specific dollar amounts in the original motion, without a five-year cash flow impact analysis, and over the explicit objections of the CFO's questions about account structure. The board president read committee charter limitations aloud to justify the exclusion — a use of the charter that treats advisory committees as obstacles rather than assets. When Carla Johnson asked whether Troon was hired "to do away with all of our advisory committees," Lackey did not answer. [Board Meeting ~55:08–55:20]

The result is predictable and concrete: the FAC chair resigned. A second FAC member is contemplating the same. The POA has now lost its two most recent FAC chairs under this board. The community's ability to recruit qualified financial volunteers — the "30, 40 years of finance experience" Grollemond referenced [Board Meeting ~50:57–51:06] — will be measurably diminished.

The irony is that the same meeting produced exemplary governance in other areas. The golf cart lease followed a textbook advisory committee process: GAC evaluated carts, FAC evaluated financing, Troon contributed vendor pricing leverage, and the board voted unanimously. If that process had been applied to the reserve transfer and WSIAF refund, the substantive outcomes might have been identical — but the institutional credibility would have been preserved.

Community members should watch for the following at the July meetings:

- Whether the WSIAF refund process proposed by Claude Thorn by June 30 includes a termination date, a clear funding source, and any advisory committee input — or whether it proceeds solely through staff and Troon as the motion directs.
- Whether the Loudon County workshop on July 20 advances the utility district petition, and whether the August 3 TBOUR target date holds.
- Whether the rate study contract with ratestudies.com is executed, and when results will be available to the community.
- Whether the board formally responds to Scott Brown's June 10 audit report, which found no evidence that water/sewer funds were misappropriated — a finding directly relevant to the rationale offered for the reserve transfer.
- Whether the FAC and Audit Committee vacancies created by Sloan's resignation are filled, and whether additional resignations follow.
- Whether a written TVN access policy is developed and presented for board vote.
- Whether the Kahite lift station engineering contract receives any update — it has not been mentioned in two consecutive monthly meetings while the TDEC consent decree remains active.
- Whether the five-year cash flow impact of the $5.6M reserve transfer and WSIAF refund is presented to the community, as neither Grollemond's nor Johnson's requests for this analysis were satisfied before the vote.
- Whether the pre-meeting invocation is moved to after the gavel and included in the recording, as Taylor suggested and Godwin appeared willing to consider.

This report covers the June 15, 2026 Town Hall and June 17, 2026 Board Meeting. Previous reports in this series cover December 2025 through May 2026.
